To whomever it may concern:

Just to say that GRA has been a valued member of our organisation for many years and has been a community hub in an area where the population churn can make it challenging to develop good community spirit. When I first went there about 10 years ago I was amazed at just how much they managed to do with such a small space.

Our popular map of London city farms and community gardens is now in its third reprint, just out, and features the GRA along with 62 other London groups making a positive impact locally. The importance of such places is being increasingly recognised by policymakers and funders.

I do hope some accommodation can be made to avoid losing this special place, which it appears opening up the Railway arch no: 2018 at Doncaster Gardens, N4 would do. Please keep me informed of developments.
