

Building a Stronger Haringey Together

CORPORATE PLAN

2015-18

Haringey Council

INTRODUCTION

This is Haringey's Corporate Plan for the next three years. It explains our priorities for the borough, and what the council will do to help achieve these. It sets out how the council will spend our budget in support of these priorities and how we will know what progress we are making. However, we cannot achieve the priorities in the plan on our own – we hope that our partners locally and our residents will sign up to working together with us on them. We want to set out the vision for the whole borough, working with our partners to put in place everything that is needed to ensure that all our residents can lead fulfilling lives.

Context and challenges

Haringey is a place of great opportunity, with enormous potential for growth – a growing economy, more and better housing and flourishing communities. We are part of one of the world's greatest cities and benefit hugely from that – but more than this we believe that, with our potential for growth, we are the future of London. We are already home to institutions of national and international significance, including Tottenham Hotspur and Alexandra Palace. There are many great businesses, fast transport links into central London and to the M11 corridor. Our residents come from many different cultures, but our communities are comfortable with one another and get on well together. We are home to some of London's most desirable neighbourhoods, but the variety of housing available means that people who cannot afford other parts of the city have been able to make Haringey their home. All of this means Haringey is already a great place for families.

To enable all our residents to participate in this success and benefit fully from these assets, we need to address some significant challenges. Haringey is more affordable than some London boroughs, but much of our social housing needs substantial improvement and there are still many people who live in overcrowded and poor quality homes. Many residents have good, sustainable employment but there are still too many employed in insecure, short-term jobs that don't pay well enough for a decent standard of living. There is significant inequality in the borough, with substantial differences in household incomes and life expectancy between the richest and poorest parts. Too many children still live in poverty. Our education system is making faster improvements than anywhere else in the country, but our children are still not all receiving a world class education.

Foreword from the Leader

Our vision: To work with communities to make Haringey an even better place to live

Our approach: To encourage investment and create opportunities for all to share in

This document sets out an agreed vision for what kind of borough we want Haringey to be. The words “Corporate Plan” may be stamped on it, but for me it is a whole lot more. It is a plan for the borough, a plan which sets out how we will work together to make Haringey an even stronger place than it is now.

Over the last few months we have been talking to our residents, businesses and partners to help inform its contents. You have told us the things that are important to you: a consistent quality of education and more support for younger people; stronger networks of support for older and more vulnerable people; cleaner and safer streets; more affordable housing; a healthier Haringey, and greater investment in our town centres. These are our priorities and what we are working to deliver as you will see in the pages that follow.

We have set ourselves five key targets that are particularly important and will help define the success of this plan during the next three years and beyond:

- Every child and young person is able to attend a good or outstanding school or early years setting
- To deliver £1 billion of inward investment into the borough
- Increase average household earnings in Haringey to align with the London average by 2030 and to have made clear progress towards that goal by 2018
- Ensure that people are able to have as much social contact as they like, reducing the number of people who feel isolated to less than 12% which is the current national average
- Increase the number of people satisfied with the area as a place to live to more than 80% compared with the current national average of 75%

Some people have, quite understandably, expressed concerns about the reduction in council funding and believe that many of these things will be difficult to achieve. In no way do I underestimate the challenges ahead. In setting a three-year budget alongside the Corporate Plan, we face many difficult decisions and there will be things that the council does not want to do. However, this only serves to remind us why having a long-term plan - which not only takes into account council resources but also harnesses the wealth of talent that we have across our communities - is so important. So how can you maintain and improve quality of life while taking out £70 million from system? It will require innovation, ambition and, most of all, team work.

“Ambition” in the sense that we are committed to securing £1 billion extra investment in Haringey, building new homes, securing new jobs and providing residents and businesses with new opportunities to succeed. Growth pays for services and the buildings that they are housed in. “Innovation” in that we have and will change the way services are delivered, with a much stronger focus on prevention rather than spending greater sums on problem solving. “Prevention” is inextricably linked to growth because one form of prevention is to help more people, particularly younger people, build the skills and confidence to succeed.

“Team work” is fundamental to this plan because we cannot, nor would we want to, deliver it on our own. Everyone who has a role to play in our borough is crucial to its success; our schools, the voluntary sector, police, health partners, businesses and residents. Working much closer together, despite the difficulties ahead, we can and will succeed.

Claire Kober

Foreword from the Chief Executive

The three-year Corporate Plan, and the budget proposals that come with it, is a landmark moment because it ushers in a new era of change in the way that we do things, not just as a council, but in our relationship with partners, businesses and residents.

The Leader has said very clearly that, despite the grim financial outlook, she is not prepared to manage decline. That is a very bold statement given the Herculean battle facing local government over the next three years and beyond.

We have, in many ways, the perfect storm – rising demand for services, particularly in social care, and shrinking budgets because of the reduction in Government grants. Yet we have a responsibility to our communities to face-up to this challenge rather than bury our heads in the sand. That is why setting a three-year budget and vision is so important. We can start a proper debate about what people can expect from their council and the step change that is needed if we are to fill the gaps and grow our communities.

I am confident it is a change that we can make. For too long local government has thought that we have all the answers. We have acted like a big machine dispensing services, but not always very well and not always in unison with the very people who can benefit from them. And often those services have been delivered at the wrong point in time, trying to solve a problem at far greater cost rather than preventing it from happening in the first place.

We have also been stuck in the mud for far too long with poor customer services and out-dated transactional methods, which means that people have to wait too long, either in virtual (on the phone) or physical queues – and at greater cost to the taxpayer.

The council of the future will be very different. It will be a council where people can access services and information seamlessly and easily at a time that pleases them, not us, with everything available online (at lesser cost to the taxpayer). It will be a council where we recognise that the solutions to many problems do not lie in the civic centre but in our communities. We have a huge amount of talent, expertise, knowledge and willingness in our communities. Our job will be to facilitate, encourage, enable and support that talent to flourish. And the services that we do provide or commission need to be concentrated far more acutely on preventing problems from occurring rather than dealing with the problem. Our residents will be far better served by that approach. We have got a big job to do to create more opportunities for people to get on in life and that is why we are concentrating on bringing in an extra £1 billion of investment through regeneration during the next three years.

This plan is a landmark moment because it ushers in a new era of change in the way that we do things, not just as a council, but in our relationship with partners, businesses and residents.

Also, as devolution from Whitehall becomes a reality we must be an organisation ready to take on the additional risk and responsibility that will come alongside the freedoms and flexibilities we have long-sought. I strongly believe that we have both the potential and desire to really benefit from this.

I realise that our three-year plan will require a big step change within the council and within our borough. We will require new skills and we will need to change our thinking. This Corporate Plan is the start of that journey - a journey of facing up to the challenges that have been set and supporting our communities to grow rather than managing decline. We will need the help of everybody who has an interest in our borough to achieve it, but I am confident that if we work together the future for our borough will be very bright.

Nick Walkley

The transformation journey

The economic challenges the UK has faced during the last few years have had a significant impact on organisations across the whole of the public, private and voluntary sectors. In Haringey, we do not want to manage decline but ensure that as an organisation we have the capacity to tackle all the challenges we face in a planned and pragmatic way, with a focus on improving outcomes for our residents.

The organisational change required to deliver a new future for Haringey Council is huge and should not be underestimated. The council has already taken out more than £100m from its budgets since 2010 with smaller scale revisions to services and reductions. We need to take a further £70m out over the next three years and to do this requires radical change.

Building better partnerships

We are aware of the need to redefine the council's role and purpose in response to continued austerity - in terms of what we deliver and how we deliver services. This has meant reviewing our partnership arrangements, which need to be more strategically planned. Up until now there has been a significant reliance on the council to lead, to manage and to resource local partnerships. The time is right for us to move away from this way of working and towards shared accountability.

Making the most of community skills

As part of exploring different delivery models we have started to examine how to talk and work more effectively with local communities. Communities have assets and relationships that can provide mutual support beyond the reach of council services.

In many cases, when people help themselves and each other better outcomes are achieved.

Engaging with residents differently

Resident engagement is an essential mechanism for checking if we are delivering services that residents want and that the services are focused on their needs. As well as engaging with our residents on key issues such as the budget cuts, we are also developing new approaches to resident engagement, focused on building community capacity.

Building service capacity where needed

We have created new teams and brought in experts to help drive our change agenda. Examples include:

- The creation of the Corporate Delivery Unit, which supports sustained improvement in delivery in areas that have been identified as a priority by the Chief Executive and the Leader such as temporary accommodation, street cleanliness and children's safeguarding
- iMPower, which has been brought in as our strategic partner to support our 54,000 transformation programme in children's services
- Creating the Haringey Academy approach to identify and develop our best in-house talent

Delivering better services

We are working hard to ensure that we deliver the services that matter to residents in a timely, effective, efficient and satisfactory way. Performance has improved significantly across all customer service indicators in 2013/14. In addition we have seen improved services in a number of key areas including:

- All of secondary schools judged as good or outstanding by Ofsted
- Street cleanliness and recycling rates
- High quality parks and open spaces
- Timely processing of planning applications
- The most improved borough in the country for GCSE performance since 2010

Over the last 18 months, the council has embarked on a significant and ambitious modernisation programme of transformation and change. We have identified six areas that need to be prioritised in order to achieve the best possible outcomes for the borough and ensure residents are receiving excellent service. These are:

Tottenham

Our future vision for Tottenham is that by the age of 20, a child born in Tottenham today will have a quality of life and access to the same level of opportunity that is at least equal to the best in London. The Tottenham Strategic Regeneration Framework (SRF) sets out the vision and aspiration for the regeneration of Tottenham over the next 20 years.

Haringey 54,000

In Haringey, we want every child to be safe and able to thrive and achieve. Our children's services have been on an improvement journey and there are achievements to be proud of but we have a lot more work to do. In July, Ofsted judged our children's services as 'requires improvement', which is in line with or better than other London boroughs inspected so far but we are aiming much higher. Not only do we need to continue to strengthen the quality of our practice in social care, but we need to fundamentally re-think and re-shape how our services support children and young people in Haringey so that these are good and then outstanding.

Housing unification and improvement

This programme aims to integrate our services into a customer-focused service in line with corporate priorities and programmes and deliver a housing strategy for the borough, including capital investment programmes.

Health and social care integration

We will work with our NHS partners to bring health and social care together and create a more effective and efficient health pathway for patients with a bigger focus on prevention.

Business infrastructure

In order to deliver the priorities in the Corporate Plan, we need to be an effective and efficient organisation. This corporate programme will identify what needs to change, deliver and embed those changes and ensure we have the right internal infrastructure and culture to be a sustainable, customer-focused council.

Customer services

The Customer Services Transformation programme (CST) will fundamentally change and improve the way in which people interact with the council to access services. We will ensure customers are able to interact with us in the way they choose to and that their experience is a positive one.

Our priorities

The following pages set out a summary of our objectives and are followed by outline delivery plans, which include how we intend to measure success

We will identify priority sectors, and help firms in those sectors to locate, grow and create jobs in Haringey, recognising in particular the importance of small and medium-sized businesses to the borough's economy, the need to create secure, highly skilled jobs and the role that higher education institutions could play in attracting investment and raising aspiration 3. Working In Partnership

Objective	How will we deliver the objective?	Who will be involved in delivering the objective?
1 Develop a single set of borough priorities for residents, which is owned and bought into across different partners	1. The council will further develop its existing leadership role, working with partners across a wide spectrum to deliver the priorities identified in the Corporate Plan. Activity will include re-shaping the priorities of the statutory partnership boards; working with groups of partners such as business, NHS, voluntary and community sector and head teachers to deliver this objective	1. The council will facilitate the development of the vision, which will be driven by the ambitions, desires and views of members, residents and service users
2 Working with our partners to deliver joined-up and integrated services, that place residents at the heart	1. Priority owners, service users and the leadership of the respective boards will be involved in delivering the objective

Haringey's Corporate Plan for 2015-2018 sets out the council's vision and priorities for the borough over the next three years. However, we recognise that we cannot achieve the priorities in the plan on our own; working with local partners and resident is essential.
