Have Your Say Haringey

To view latest consultations, visit www.haringey.gov.uk/haveyoursay

We're committed to creating a more equal Haringey, where the ambitions and aspirations of all our residents are supported.

And we're clear that we're not prepared to just sit back and manage decline in the face of ongoing challenges and cuts to our budget.

Instead, we want to help shape and celebrate local communities by harnessing talent and opportunity, and by giving others the tools to make a difference where they live.

Our commitment to empowering communities is under-pinned by our values and priorities – making excellent education a given for all of Haringey's children; forging safer neighbourhoods; creating healthier, happier communities; building new and affordable housing; supporting our economy, and investing in our high streets, roads and pavements.

We've already seen government cuts of more than £100million to our budget during the past few years. There's no doubt that with a further £70million savings to be found, meeting our ambitions will be an even greater challenge, and that we face very difficult choices about how to prioritise our remaining budget.

We can continue to build a stronger and more equal Haringey with high-quality, responsive council services that enable our residents and our borough to thrive and flourish. But if we're going to overcome the challenges ahead of us, we need to understand your priorities and we need to work together.

Investing in our tomorrow means supporting sustainable growth that will help get more people into work, bring better housing and a stronger local economy – and give us greater control of our financial destiny.

You can find out more about Investing in Our Tomorrow on page eight. Through this budget conversation, we want to hear from everyone who lives, works and runs a business in the borough.

We want to better understand what you love about Haringey; what matters to you most about the borough you call home; what action you might take to improve your neighbourhood and help your community, and how we should invest the money we do have in the right ways so that together we can do things better.

Please do share your views with us.

IN BRIEF

New adoption scheme

Haringey has been chosen by the government as one of a number of areas to pilot a new adoption register scheme.

The scheme will allow those approved to adopt to search the National Adoption Register, and has been designed to help children be placed more quickly with suitable families.

Approved adopters will be able to find out key information, such as the hobbies, likes and dislikes of children awaiting adoption. They will also be able to hear them speak in videos for the first time.

For more information on adopting in Haringey, visit the Adoption North London website at www.adoptionnorthlondon.co.uk

High hopes for Haringey Housing Zone

The council will learn soon whether its bid for a Tottenham Housing Zone has been successful.

The proposal, being considered by the Greater London Authority, could see dedicated funding and link up local landowners to help bring more than 5,000 new homes and a new town centre by 2025.

If the bid is successful, half of the new homes would be available for low-cost rent or sale – with shared ownership and rent-to-buy schemes helping more families onto the housing ladder.

The Housing Zone would pave the way for 1,700 more homes than would otherwise be possible at Tottenham Hale, with multi-million pound investment in infrastructure and the creation of first-class public spaces.

New high-quality mixed-use developments along the waterfront of Lee Valley Regional Park, at Monument Way, and a creative quarter in South Tottenham would also create 4,000 new jobs in the leisure, arts and retail industries.

Tottenham Hale is the centre of a transport revolution – with more than £110million being invested in a new Tube, rail and bus station, a redesigned road system and more trains to Stansted Airport, Stratford and central London.

Wood Green transport alert

Motorists are advised to allow extra time when visiting Wood Green as works to bring huge improvements to the High Road step up a gear.

The £4.2million upgrade is underway, with street clutter already cleared and quality new paving installed.

As progress continues, new road crossings and raised surfaces to prioritise pedestrians and cyclists are being introduced.

To allow for works to be carried out, two-way temporary traffic lights will be installed at various points along the High Road until March next year.

The works will mean traffic delays and disruption to some bus routes that serve Wood Green.

Further information is available at www.haringey.gov.uk/woodgreen_scheme and at www.tfl.gov.uk/woodgreen-improvements

IN BRIEF

Pricey lack of paperwork

A scrap metal collector who failed to keep record of his haul was ordered to pay more than £800.

Busuioc Dumitru, of Park Lane, Tottenham, is the first person in Haringey to be prosecuted under new laws that require scrap metal collectors to log every item they pick up.

Mr Dumitru had a licence to collect waste, but when stopped in a spot check was unable to provide a record of the scrap metal he was carrying, which he said he had collected from front gardens.

At Tottenham Magistrates' Court he was ordered to pay an £80 fine, £735 costs and a victim surcharge of £20.

Touts ticked off

A ticket tout who was caught trying to flog Wireless Festival tickets was ordered to pay out more than £600.

Abraham Sonne, 41, of Manchester, was spotted offering tickets for sale during the first day of the three-day festival, with council enforcement officers confiscating 11 tickets from him.

Mr Sonne was fined £200 and ordered to pay costs of £407.50, plus a victim surcharge of £20.

Haringey Council's Neighbourhood Action team, licensing officers and police worked throughout Wireless to target touts and illegal traders.

Know the plan for fire

Haringey fire chiefs are calling on the borough's high-rise residents to take note of the life-saving Know the Plan safety campaign.

Know the Plan urges people living in high-rise and purpose built flats to understand basic safety and escape measures in case of fire.

www.knowtheplan.co.uk has information for landlords and residents, including explaining how staying in a flat for a short time until help arrives may be safer than trying to leave if a fire is elsewhere in your block.

Bumper year for Green Flags

A record number of Haringey's parks have been given coveted Green Flag Awards, which recognise their high standards and quality.

Haringey is now home to 21 Green Flag parks and four community gardens. Down Lane Park, Tottenham, and Ducketts Common, Turnpike Lane, joined the list for the first time following a string of recent improvements.

Ducketts Common has seen its playground and ball games area revamped and renewed, while new tennis courts, a mini natural play area and new seating are among the improvements at Down Lane.

Kirsten Wright, of Friends of Ducketts Common, said: "We are delighted and really proud that the hard work of the group, all the volunteers who generously give up their spare time to work on the planting on the common, as well as the council and parks staff, has been recognised by being awarded a prestigious Green Flag.

"We look forward to everyone continuing to work together to make sure Ducketts can retain it!"

IN BRIEF

Stoptober

Top comedians have thrown their support behind the Stoptober campaign – using humour to help hundreds of smokers quit the habit.

And help is at hand for anyone in Haringey hoping to turn their back on cigarettes this autumn.

The Enfield and Haringey NHS Quit Smoking Service holds specialist smokers' clinics at different locations across the two boroughs, offering one-to-one support through targeted six-week treatment campaigns.

Visit www.smokefreelifeharingey.co.uk or call 0800 772 0066 for info.

Councillors' Code of Conduct

In accordance with section 27(2) of the Localism Act 2011, Haringey Council has adopted a revised Code of Conduct for Councillors, which took effect on July 22, 2014.

The Code of Conduct will apply, as before, to all elected members of the council and co-opted members of council committees. The council has also adopted revised arrangements for dealing with allegations that a member or co-opted member of Haringey Council has failed to comply with the Members' Code of Conduct.

A copy of the Code of Conduct and the arrangements for dealing with complaints about councillor conduct can be found on the Haringey Council website or can be inspected during normal office hours by asking for the Democratic Services Manager at Haringey Council, River Park House, 225 High Road, Wood Green.

Positive Youth poster campaign

Some of Haringey's most inspiring young people gathered at London's City Hall for a celebration party to mark the launch of the Positive Youth News (PYN) Haringey campaign.

The event saw talented young people – whose achievements are highlighted in the posters – talk about their experiences of life in Haringey, showing that the borough is home to many success stories.

Their achievements form the basis of a poster campaign across the borough.

Guest speakers who joined the young people included Highgate Wood School headteacher and chair of the Haringey Secondary Heads Forum, Patrick Cozier; Haringey borough police commander Chief Superintendent Victor Olisa; Tottenham MP David Lammy; Haringey and Enfield London Assembly Member Joanne McCartney, and Lena Forbes from vlnspired.

Entertainment came from Haringey's finest singing and rapping talent, Kayley O'Neill, Nico Dimi and Kacey Chambers.

Congratulations to everyone involved. You can check out the posters at www.positiveyouthnewsharingey.co.uk achievement; overcoming adversity; unsung youth; celebrating diversity; achievement in art or culture; community organisation; sustainability, and school mentor of the year.

Mini Matisse's' school masterpiece

Children at Lea Valley Primary School enjoyed a colourful start to the new term with an art installation created by artist Yorgos Papadopoulos alongside pupils.

The installation, which greets visitors to the reception area at the school in Somerford Grove, Tottenham, was created with help from pupils in each year group, who were inspired to get creative following a visit to the Matisse cut-outs exhibition at Tate Modern.

Headteacher Maria Koktsis said: "The idea of having a contemporary art installation came about because we were having an updated reception area and I felt strongly that the students should have a say in it. What better way to be involved than by making an artwork together?"

Yorgos helped pupils to create their own metre-by-metre artworks before translating the final design into a beautiful glass installation.

Ms Koktsis added: "Our vision at Lea Valley is that if we're going to be outstanding, we've got to look outstanding!"

IN BRIEF

Park Road Pool

The indoor swimming and diving pools at Park Road Leisure Centre have been closed for the winter to allow for major refurbishment works to be carried out.

The works, part of a £15million investment in facilities by the council's leisure partner Fusion, will see a complete renovation of the main pool, replacing the 40-year-old pipe work and boiler system; installing new windows and lighting; replacing the ceiling, and improving the pool viewing gallery.

While Park Road pool is closed, customers will be able to use facilities at Tottenham Green Leisure Centre.

Further information about the works and alternative pools can be found at www.fusion-lifestyle.com

World Mental Health Day

A host of activities and events – including an art exhibition, a football match and a bike ride – will be on offer as Haringey marks World Mental Health Day 2014.

The week-long campaign, from Monday October 6 until World Mental Health Day on October 10, is being led by the council's public health team in partnership with mental health charity Mind.

Each event will see mental health service users, professionals and local people coming together to help raise awareness of mental illness, break down stigma and promote good mental health and wellbeing.

For further information, email nuala.kiely@mhsc.co.uk.

Honouring Pat Egan

Family, friends and colleagues will pay their respects to late Woodside ward Cllr Pat Egan at a special Full Council meeting in his honour on Thursday, October 16.

Cllr Egan, 66, died in July following an illness. He had been a Woodside ward councillor for eight years and was chair of governors at St Thomas More RC School.

The meeting starts at 7pm at Wood Green Civic Centre.

Investing in our tomorrow

The council has teamed up with the Haringey Association of Voluntary and Community Organisations (HAVCO) to launch the Haringey budget conversation – Investing in our Tomorrow.

Investing in our Tomorrow is about making sure Haringey has a sustainable financial future, with funding prioritised in the right areas and the council and community working together to improve the borough.

With around £100million in government grants cut from the council's budget during the past four years, and a further £70million reduction expected in the next three, it's more important than ever that every single penny is spent in the right places.

There will be some tough challenges and very difficult decisions ahead. Through the budget conversation, we hope to better understand:

- What local people love most about Haringey
- How residents think the money the council does have should be prioritised
- The part residents can play in improving Haringey
- What tools communities need to help them make a difference where they live

To allow as many people as possible to share their views, we'll be out and about across Haringey speaking to residents, business owners, community groups and others – including attending local area forum meetings and setting up road shows to give people the opportunity to have their say.

We've also produced a short online film to set out some of the key challenges, explain why the budget will have to change, and get you thinking about the changes we might make and the part you can play in Haringey's future.

To get involved, visit the dedicated website at www.haringey.gov.uk/ourtomorrow; join us at your next Area Forum & Committee meeting (listings on page 2), or come to one of our roadshows running throughout October - details are on the website.

Green living grips the imagination

If you've ever wondered how you can eat more locally-grown food, make energy improvements to your home or even how to turn your tired table into an "upcycled" gem, the Haringey Green Fair was the place to be as scores of local groups and traders set up stall.

The event on Tottenham Green drew crowds of people to get top tips from experts, browse ethically-made crafts and enjoy performances from the borough's musicians.

With plenty of community associations, green groups and food growing schemes on hand, there were lots of ways for residents to sign up to small steps towards a more sustainable lifestyle.

Stalls included Living Under One Sun; Muswell Hill Sustainability Group; The Conservation Volunteers; Wood Works Wonders; Friends of Tottenham Green, and many more.

Matthew Creber, Chair of the Friends of Tottenham Green, said it was inspiring to see so many people keen to find out more about how they can get involved in the community.

He said: "After working so hard to prepare for the event, it was really great to see it be on the scale that we hoped it would be.

"I think that with Tottenham Green being a green space in the centre of an urban area, it's really important to celebrate the environment and give people an opportunity to think about their impact and what they can do to make a difference."

Haringey Council was the first major local authority in the country to commit to reducing local CO2 emissions by 40 per cent by 2020 and has already introduced a raft of carbon-cutting measures to help the borough reach the ambitious target.

“ West Green Road is a great place to be ”

Since opening in Tottenham nearly five years ago, Joao Castro has been at the heart of north London's Portuguese community, with his Bom Pecado restaurant on West Green Road packed with families tucking into authentic dishes or people stopping for a morning coffee.

Now, with the help of a unique project by Haringey Council, Tom Ebdon Architects and local arts group Make-Room, Joao's business is booming with a sparkling new tiled shop front that makes the cafe stand out from the crowd.

Bom Pecado is one of three shops on the road to receive a makeover – with staff at property agents ABBA and Uncle John's Bakery also receiving bespoke new designs to freshen up the look of the street.

Joao said: "When people saw the new shop front they loved it, and we've had lots of comments about it."

"West Green Road is very friendly and I love the people – everyone is happy to talk. Things are changing for the better – people say it feels like home."

The makeovers are part of a series of ideas to brighten up the area, with regular public art displays under the rail bridge and a planned 'pocket park' helping to make visitors feel more welcome.

Callista St Omer, who has managed ABBA for 12 years, has already seen more people stopping in local shops thanks to the improvements to the street.

She said: "West Green Road is great place to be – everyone says hello and there's a real community. I stay here to go for a coffee or get some bread. Everybody is trying to help each other."

"Our shop front was looking very outdated – I didn't know exactly what I wanted but I told the architect we needed some colour to liven up the place."

"We wanted something eye-catching – and we got it. It's taken us to a different level and we're getting more customers from all around the place."

Haringey's fashion flair

Working hard in a Haringey industrial estate, hundreds of young people are learning the skills they need to become the fashion stars of the future thanks to a pioneering academy.

The Stitching Academy – a collaboration between local firm Fashion Enter, Haringey Council and online retailer ASOS – gives budding fashionistas practical training and qualifications in how to design and make outfits, leading to many setting up their own business or securing their dream job.

Now, with funding from the council, the project is due to be expanded into the Fashion Technology Academy, which will give 3,000 people the chance to earn NVQ qualifications during the next five years.

Former St Thomas More School student Shana Tekila, 19 (pictured right), tells how her Level 1 Diploma in Stitching Skills is helping her realise her childhood ambitions.

“Since a really young age, I’ve been interested in fashion – I want to learn more about fashion technology or marketing. My ultimate goal is to become a designer.

My mum is a professional hairdresser, so growing up I had a passion for fashion, but I kind of ignored the sewing machine in my room.

Doing the Stitching Academy has made me pay attention to it and given me the confidence to go back home, make garments for other people and have fun. Now I’ve made a few skirts and tops.

If you want to progress in a career in fashion then I’d really recommend an apprenticeship as you get taught skills and have a qualification at the end of it.

You can learn about what you want to do by actually doing it, rather than just reading about it.

It’s been a great experience for me and I have been able to expand my skills – I’m now more creative and I have a much better eye for colour.”

To find out more about the Fashion Technology Academy and how you can apply for an apprenticeship, visit www.fashioncapital.co.uk/apprenticeship or email apprenticeship@fashioncapital.co.uk

Curtain twitchers? No chance!

Meet the Haringey neighbourhood watchers working to dispel myths

The traditional image of Neighbourhood Watch (NHW) is of nosy curtain twitchers spying on their fellow residents.

But those out-dated clichés couldn't be further from the truth in Haringey, which is home to more than 300 active watches with a combined membership of around 19,000 residents.

Together, the watches cover more than 420 streets, estates, parks and neighbourhoods, helping to make Haringey a safer and friendlier place to live.

Pauline Syddell, Haringey Police Neighbourhood Watch Link Manager, explains: "Modern NHW is not about being nosy or interfering, it's about making sure that those around you, their property and their local neighbourhoods are protected against crime.

"Besides which, many NHW members now have blinds instead of curtains – so it's not as easy to twitch!"

"Neighbours looking out for each other and being aware of what is going on may be construed as 'nosy' but think how much safer you'd feel – and how much crime could be prevented – if we were all 'nosy neighbours'.

"NHW effectively places another layer of crime prevention between your area and criminals."

The majority of Haringey's NHW coordinators are contactable by email, making it easier than ever to share information with local residents.

Of course, traditional methods of communication are still used when needed, but modern technology ensures NHW is no longer just the preserve of older generations. In fact, Haringey's youngest NHW coordinator is just 20 years old and has been in the role for two years already.

"Many of our Watches embrace the technology that was not available when NHW first started in the 1980s and prefer to have virtual meetings," says Pauline.

"Many also use their own websites, Facebook pages, blogs and group texting to communicate."

To find out more or join Haringey's NHW contact Pauline on 020 8721 6803 or email Pauline.syddell@met.police.uk

Haringey's very own hidden bat cave

They were once an underground link to the rest of London, but it's been four decades since the last train roared through the tunnels under Highgate.

Tip-toeing through the pitch-black underworld using only torchlight is a spooky experience as you wander what creatures of the night lie among the murky, humid route where passengers once made their journeys to work.

Now, thanks to a unique project, the tunnels are home to another type of sleepy commuter – colonies of hibernating bats spending the winter on specially-designed bat boxes and screens.

The furry-friendly snugs are hung from the walls and on free-standing structures throughout the route under Shepherd's Hill, providing a safe haven for bat colonies whose natural habitat is being eroded.

Since the equipment was installed by Haringey Council, Transport for London and the London Bat Group last year, the first species has been seen making the soot-lined passages their home – protected by new bricked-up entrances that keep conditions perfect.

Licensed bat conservation volunteer and Highgate resident Cindy Blaney first got involved in the project when she wanted to find out more about what was happening in the tunnels at the end of Parkland Walk.

She said: "Bats are really important but they're declining in numbers across the UK.

"They're a protected species and they are a unique and valuable niche in the ecosystem, and although they're able to fly, they really rely on us preserving the places they love most.

"This project is the only one its kind in London and it brings together bats from right across the area."

Cindy and her team of volunteers will survey the tunnels every winter to count Highgate's miniature mammal population and check on the progress of the project.

Many bats roost in buildings and are extremely vulnerable to construction work or demolition – especially during winter hibernation or as newborn pups are being raised in the summer.

For more information on where bats might be roosting in your property and how you can protect them, visit the Bat Conservation Trust's website at www.bats.org.uk or become a member of the London Bat Group at www.londonbats.org.uk

Record-breaking GCSE record maintained

Haringey's year 11 students excelled again this year, matching last year's record-breaking GCSE results and beating the national average.

An impressive 63.6 percent of students scooped five or more A*-C grades including English and Maths.

Haringey People spent results day visiting schools around the borough to congratulate students as they celebrated their successes.

Daniel Assave of Gladesmore Community School was rightly over the moon with his 5 A*s and a B.

"I was kind of expecting to do well," he said. "But this is amazing. I worked really hard ever since year 10 and I feel proud."

At Fortismere there was twice the excitement when twins Agnes and Hester Girling opened their results to reveal a staggering 11 A*s each. Hester admitted to some friendly competition between her and her sister in the run-up to exams. "There is sibling rivalry, but really we're very close," she said.

Hornsey School for Girls student Kirsten Land didn't just get an A* in her Further Maths exam, she scored a perfect 100 percent and the best mark in the country!

Kirsten, who is off to study at a specialist maths centre at Kings College, London, said: "I was really happy to do so well and when they told me I got the highest score in the country in Maths I was really pleased."

Headteachers were equally enthusiastic.

Helen Anthony, headteacher at Fortismere, said: "I'm delighted with this year's performance. To have improved against the volatile background nationally is a credit to the hard work and dedication of all students and staff."

Highgate Wood School's Patrick Cozier, Chair of the Haringey Secondary Headteachers' Forum, said: "All of the Haringey secondary schools are proud of their students' achievements."

"GCSE results day is a fantastic opportunity for students, staff (and a few parents) to celebrate together.

"They have worked incredibly hard, some of them through quite difficult circumstances, yet the many positive news stories from across the borough and the wonderful achievements of Haringey children show that true hard work and perseverance pays off."

A-mazing A-levels: Haringey a cut above

Another set of exams, another set of fantastic results. Not to be outdone by their GCSE colleagues, Haringey's A-level and BTEC students also registered results to top national averages.

81.8 percent of students in Haringey achieved five or more A*-C grades, compared to 76.5 percent nationally. And there was further good news for top achievers, with 55.3 percent of students in the borough securing A*- B grades, comfortably above the national figure of 52.4 percent.

One student whose hard work paid off was Gina Dawson of Fortismere School. Her outstanding two A*s and two As mean she's heading to Cambridge University to study English Literature.

She told Haringey People: "For ages I've been saying 'if I go to Cambridge', now I can finally say 'when I go to Cambridge'. I'm so happy!"

Haringey Sixth Form Centre duo Ray Edmonds and Olga Swietochowska both scored impressive triple distinctions in their BTEC Public Services. Ray will be studying Psychology at Brunel University, while Olga will read Law at Hertfordshire University.

Olga said: "I'm so happy I don't know what to do! I'm really proud of myself. I can't wait to learn more about law and become a lawyer or a legal advisor. I just love learning."

At Highgate Wood a jubilant Ijes Marshall was celebrating recording the school's highest ever mark in media studies.

"I can't believe it," he said. "I'm going to continue working as a raising achievement ambassador at Gladesmore Community School this year and then after that I want to go to university to study social work."

Sounds like the future is in some very safe hands - congratulations everyone!

Apply on time. Apply online.

With record-breaking exam results and glowing Ofsted reports, it's no wonder that each year more and more parents are applying to send their children to school in Haringey.

To avoid disappointment and ensure that your application is processed as smoothly as possible, it's best to complete your application online – and make sure you apply on time.

Simply visit www.haringey.gov.uk/schooladmissions to apply. The deadline for secondary school applications for pupils currently in year 6 of primary school is October 31 and for primary schools for children born between September 1, 2010 and August 31, 2011 is January 15.

Late applications will only be processed after all on-time applications – making it very unlikely that late applicants will be offered their preferred choice of school.

If you live in Haringey, you must complete the council's school admission form, even if you want to send your child to school in another borough.

Choosing a school

As recent successes at Key Stage 2, GCSE and A-level show, parents sending their children to school in Haringey can be confident that – wherever they go – the education they receive will be first class.

Finding the right school for your child is as much about seeing what fits as it is about comparing performance and results data.

Jane Flynn, Headteacher at Alexandra Primary School and Chair of the Haringey Primary, Early Years and Special Heads Association, says: "The simplest way to find out which school is the right one for your child is to arrange a visit to two or three of your closest schools.

"You will quickly get a feel for the school and its ethos and it will give you an opportunity to speak to a member of senior staff."

Getting to know your librarian

Haringey's nine libraries each play an important part in their local neighbourhoods.

And whether it's helping you track down a fondly remembered childhood book, pointing you in the right direction for local history, or digging out a dictionary, librarians are the definition of helpful.

Vicky Orekoya is a senior librarian at Hornsey Library. As well as serving customers, she oversees what goes on behind the scenes.

"Librarians wear a lot of different hats," says Vicky. "Education specialists, children's librarians, event planners and promoters, even advisors and confidantes."

"People come here for all sort of reasons, often for books, but sometimes to study – we are packed at exam times – or to take part in a class that is being held here."

While a lot has changed since Vicky first trained as a librarian, books remain at the heart of library-life. But not just paperbacks – audio books and even e-books are now proving increasingly popular. Add to this that libraries now stock music and films, display art exhibitions and host craft sessions for youngsters, and it becomes clear that the stuffy, silent, formal image of the library is a thing of the past.

"It is the people that make it such an enjoyable job," says Vicky. "By interacting with them, you find out what impact you're having on their lives, what is working and what isn't - they are what make libraries such interesting places."

Your libraries – your say!

Almost 1,000 of you took part in the recent libraries review survey, sharing your thoughts about your local library and letting the council know what you'd like to see libraries used for in the future.

- 91 percent of library users said there was a good range of books
- 79 per cent said having a library close to home was important
- 43 per cent of non-library users wanted more adult education to be available

Friends groups and library staff also gave their ideas for making libraries even better, including:

- Building improvements
- Better IT
- More books
- Flexible opening hours

Following the review, Wood Green and Muswell Hill Libraries have enjoyed refurbishments and thousands more books have been ordered.

Long-term plans for more library improvements will be considered by the council's Cabinet soon.

"Home energy improvements cut my bills by 40%"

Hornsey homeowners Norman Beddington and Charlotte Thompson moved to the area around six years ago on a mission to cut their carbon emissions and live a more sustainable lifestyle.

Following improvements including wall, floor and loft insulation, a new boiler, solar water heating and even a rainwater-catching system, their Edwardian home is nearly two-thirds more energy-efficient.

Now the couple are backing Haringey Council's Smart Homes programme, which offers residents grants of up to £6,000 for major green upgrades to their homes – especially on older Victorian and Edwardian buildings where cheap changes can prove difficult.

The project also offers subsidised energy assessments and a single point of contact throughout the process, reducing the hassle of having to deal with a variety of different suppliers.

Norman said the Smart Homes scheme will make it quicker and simpler for more people to follow in his footsteps.

He added: "When we moved in, the windows were in a really poor state and the boiler was very old. It took about three years to do the work.

"It's made a big difference to our energy bills – we've cut them by around 40 per cent. It's also much more comfortable and we can turn the boiler off completely in the summer because of the solar power.

"I think the Smart Homes programme is a very good idea and the £6,000 cashback on offer will help more people see that making improvements is financially viable.

"It's great that there's someone available to come and help you and hold your hand through the whole process, so it doesn't become confusing."

Local renewable energy experts Instagroup, in partnership with E.ON and cooperative Retrofit Works, will offer the simple service to at least 1,600 people, with more than three quarters of the work carried out by local firms.

Grants may be available if you live in Haringey, Camden, Enfield, Hackney, Islington or Waltham Forest. For more information and to apply for an assessment, call the Smart Homes advice line on 020 7527 4736 or visit www.smarthomes.house

Celebrating Haringey's black heritage

Nelson Mandela's visit to Haringey following his release from prison remains one of the borough's proudest moments.

The former South African president came to the borough in 1990 – the year he was freed from prison – as a guest of honour at a special dinner being held by an anti-apartheid campaigner.

Residents lined the streets in jubilation to welcome the iconic figure.

Mandela had visited Muswell Hill previously to hold meetings with campaigners during the height of the anti-apartheid movement. In 1983, the first Nelson Mandela birthday concert was organised at Alexandra Palace to mark his 65th birthday, while he was incarcerated.

Local Reflections: Nelson Mandela and the Haringey Anti-Apartheid Movement, at Bruce Castle Museum, tells the story of the borough's links with Madiba through artefacts, documents and photographs. It also offers the opportunity for people share their own Nelson Mandela story.

The exhibition, until December 21, is just one Black History Month event to celebrate the rich heritage of the borough's black community.

The contribution of the Caribbean and African American population to the economic and cultural life of the borough echoes throughout generations and has shaped Haringey into the diverse and culturally distinctive borough of today.

Other key events during Black History Month include:

Zanzibar – The Last Slave Market

This presentation by Avril Nanton will tell the dramatic story of how forgotten Scotsman John Kirk went about helping to end the slave trade in Zanzibar. St Ann's Library, Saturday October 4, 3.30-5pm

Photography: Sango Nghembe's Unknown Famous Faces – Haringey's African and Caribbean entrepreneurs

Wood Green Central Library, Thursday, October 30

The Head Wrap Project

Celebrating the origin and meanings of the vibrant cloths worn by men and women of African and Caribbean descent. Coombes Croft Library, Thursday October 30, 12.30-2pm

The History & Legacy of African Enslavement

This presentation will uncover the history and legacy of the enslavement of African people through our Maangamizi. Marcus Garvey Library, Thursday, October 30, 7-9pm

Film Screening: BELLE

Wood Green Central Library, Tuesday 4 November, 6pm

Haringey Remembers: The Great War, 1914-18

The First World War changed the landscape of history forever. Millions of lives were lost, generations obliterated on the front line.

Those back home waited anxiously to hear news of loved ones while adapting to new lives, as they filled the roles and jobs of family who had gone off to fight.

The picture that unfolded in Haringey was similar to that in many other towns across the country. Furniture makers became munitions factories, iconic parks became training camps and young men in army uniform became a common sight in the borough's streets.

People's War: Haringey 1914-1918, opening at Bruce Castle Museum on November 5, will tell the story of the borough during those years of fighting – unravelling the lives of women, husbands and children and telling their individual stories of heartbreak, upheaval and heroism. The exhibition will feature unique items – some from the museum and others contributed by residents – such as family photographs and letters from the front line.

Amongst the stories will be that of Sgt Edward Pulleyn and his wife, Trissie. Edward was awarded the Distinguished Conduct Medal in 1915 but was killed in action two years later at the age of 27. Trissie is pictured (below right) a year after his death wearing a black arm band as a sign of mourning. Despite her loss, she remained committed to the war effort and joined the Women's Auxiliary Army Corps.

Also displayed will be a photograph (below top left) of Private Ectos Maffuniades with his mother in the garden at their home in Bruce Grove. Ectos, a former Tottenham Grammar School boy, was awarded the Distinguished Conduct Medal for saving his captain's life in March 1916. Three months later, Ectos was killed in battle aged 20.

People's War is one of several events being held around Haringey to mark the centenary, with displays, exhibitions and talks taking place at libraries and other locations during the next four years.

Local groups have also arranged commemorative projects, including Hornsey Historical Society – which is hosting informative walks and an exhibition on local soldiers – and Haringay Remembers, a commemorative web page set up by volunteers from St Paul's Church, Haringay.

www.haringey.gov.uk/ww1

The people's war exhibitions will run from November 5 until March 29 next year.
