

A black and white photograph showing a dense thicket of vegetation. The foreground is filled with large, broad-leaved plants, possibly a species of Solanum. The background consists of a dense line of trees and shrubs, with several tall, thin, conical trees visible against a light sky. A white rectangular label is positioned in the bottom right corner of the image.

Solanum leucocarpum